Childhood Cancer Support Inc (CCS) is a Queensland charity that has been providing support and accommodation for families throughout Queensland and northern New South Wales whilst their child undergoes treatment for cancer. CCS is a hands-on charity that provides love and support to families in need.

CCS receives no direct government funding and relies on the generosity of the community in order to continue providing its diverse range of services and programs for families. The society was formed in 1975 when a small group of parents decided to meet formally to discuss ways in which they could help each other, and their children throughout such a traumatic time.

Over the last 32+ years we have assisted thousands of families in Queensland, Northern New South Wales, the Northern Territory and the Pacific Islands and the need for our services continues to grow at a staggering rate. CCS own and manage self-contained family units located close to the Royal Children's Hospital. Families are accommodated free of charge in a 'home away from home' environment. CCS also provides informal counselling, emotional and financial support, as well as recreation and respite activities.
